Leghorne, July 16. N. S.

THE Account we received the laſt week, of a Dutch Privateer's having taken a French Ship, commanded by the Sieur Bremont, is ſince confirmed; and we hear they have carried the Prize to St. Fiorenzo, a Port in Corſica. The King William Galley ſailed hence two days ago, for Scanderoon.

Turin, July 17. The Armies continue ſtill in the ſame poſture; the Allies at Moncalier, and the French at Voluera: The Marquis de Teſſe and the Marquis de Pouzole, the two French Hoſtages, are come hither; and ours, the Marquis de Pons and the Marquis d'Aix, are ſent to Pignerol: The Ceſſation of Arms is to continue 30 days, from the exchanging of the ſaid Hoſtages, which was on the 12th Inſtant; in which time the Anſwers of the Allies are expected.

Venice, July 20. Signior Suranzo and Signior Venier returned hither on Wedneſday laſt from England, and the next day went to the College, where they gave an Account of their Embaſſy; and were afterwards complimented by the Nobility, at the Palace; Signior Suranzo appeared on this Occaſion in a black Gown, with his Under-Habit of Crimſon-colour; as all new Knights wear for the 3 firſt days. The Pope's Galleys, with thoſe of Malta, departed from Meſſina the 22th of the laſt month, for the Levant; from whence we have no freſh News.

Vienna, July 21. The Letters from the Imperial Army in Hungary, of the 17th Inſtant, tell us, they were then encamped near Chonad, on the ſide of the River Maroſh, towards Temeſwaer: That upon Advice of the Enemy's having ſome Deſign in hand againſt Titul, the Lieutenant-General Count de Heiterſheim was ſent thither on the 11th, to take care that the place was provided with all things neceſſary for its Defence. The 12th, the Elector of Saxony received Advice by an Expreſs from Tranſilvania, that the Grand Signior paſſed by Philippopoli, in his March towards the Danube; which was confirmed by ſeveral Priſoners taken by our Parties that had been ſent out towards Temeſwaer. On the 16th, 4000 Saxons joined the Army; and the Count de Heyterſheim returned from Titul, having left that Garriſon in a very good poſture to receive the Enemy, in caſe of any Attempt upon them. The 17th, Orders were ſent to General Rabutin, who lay at Debra, with the Forces from Tranſilvania, to advance nearer to Chonad, in order to join the Army if it were found neceſſary. The Emperor is ſending the Count de Wallenſtein, in Quality of his Ambaſſador, to Poland, to be preſent at the Election, which is appointed for the 29th of the next month: And by all that appears hitherto, we have reaſon to believe, that Prince James, eldeſt Son to the laſt King, will be choſen, with little or no Oppoſition.

Francfort, July 29. Five Regiments of Horſe, of the Elector Palatin's Troops are come into our Neighbourhood; and the Count d'Autel, who commands them, has ſent an Expreſs to Prince Lewis of Baden, encamped at Rauchenburgh, near Wiſeloch, to receive his Orders, whether the ſaid Regiments ſhall march to the main Army, or join the Troops of Munſter, Paterborne and Wolfembuttel, who lie at preſent near the Neckar, and ſeem deſigned to act in a ſeparate Body. Prince Lewis has detached from his Camp two Regiments of Huſſars, under the Command of Count Palf, with Orders to paſs the Rhine at Mayence, and poſt themſelves near that City, to protect the Country thereabouts from being inſulted by the Enemy's Parties. The French Army continues near Stolhofen, on the other ſide the Rhine.

Paris, July 30. Several Expreſſes have arrived here within theſe few days from Brittany and Poitou, with an Account of the Motions of the Enemy's Fleet, which have given a very great Alarm all along thoſe Coaſts. The Letters from Piedmont, of the 24th Inſtant ſay, the French Army was ſtill at Voluera; that the Mareſchal de Catinat had the day before ſent away two Regiments towards Feneſtrelle; that ſeveral others would ſoon follow; and that the whole Army would re-paſs the Mountains, ſo ſoon as they ſaw the German and Spaniſh Troops retired out of Piedmont. 'Tis ſaid, that the Duke of Orleans will go hence towards the end of the next month, to receive the Princeſs of Piedmont at Lyons. The Marquis de Croiſſy, Secretary of State, died here the 18th, in the 67th year of his Age; in which Office, his Son, the Marquis de Torci, ſucceeds him. The Marquis de Neſmond is ſailed from Breſt, with the Squadron under his Command.

Bruſſels, Auguſt 1. The Mareſchal de Boufflers has ſent a Detachment from his Army, towards Flanders; which paſſed two days ago by Conde, in their March to Pont Eſpieres, near Tournay, upon the Scheldt; whither the Mareſchal de Villeroy has likewiſe ſent a Detachment of 8 Regiments, to ſecure that Poſt. The Marquis de Harcourt, the Count de Tallard, and the Count de Guiſcard continue in their former Poſts, to cover Dinant: And the Landrgrave of Heſſe lies, with the German Forces, near Namur. A great Convoy of Proviſions
